Inspections have started in October 2022. We invite citizens to proceed with the cleaning of their property.

Outaouais SPCA - The importance of spaying and neutering cats

Of course, pet owners are responsible for the care of their pets, but it goes without saying that spaying and neutering of cats that roam freely outdoors is of the utmost importance.

Here are some figures illustrating how quickly overpopulation can occur:

Imagine two cats sharing the same territory, one male and one female, both unsterilized. If we calculate that a female cat's gestation period is about 52 to 56 days, and that she can give birth to an average of 12 kittens per year between late winter and late summer, that's when things get tricky. If those 14 cats (mom, dad and the previous year's 12 kittens) are all roaming the territory, the following year you could expect to find 144 cats! If all these cats survive and reproduce, and are not sterilized, we could have, after only four years, more than 20,000 cats in this area! (Reference)

If there are stray cats in your area, please be conscientious. If they are healthy, please do not intervene. The SPCA unfortunately does not have the capacity to intervene on all stray cats at this time but continues to work on its spay/neuter and release programs.

If you have an injured stray cat, or have a cat/kittens that you can no longer care for, contact the SPCA as soon as possible to make an appointment.

You can help counteract the scourge of overpopulation.
